Brief Description of Trip, Activities, and Expectations:

The AT Backpacking Trip with TrekNorth High School will provide students with a solid understanding of wilderness backpacking skills. It is taught using a combination of classroom lectures and actual trip experience, providing students with the skills necessary to participate in an efficient wilderness canoeing experience.

We will begin the experience in the classroom, where we'll talk about packing, food, gear and the route of travel.

The group will spend the nights at campsites along the Appalachian Trail where the living conditions are rustic and communal; students can expect to share tents with other students, and the campsites will not have running water, flush toilets, or phone service. Transportation to emergency services will be available but limited and could take several hours.

Environment

Backcountry trips means dealing with extreme weather conditions that can quickly change. Students should expect to be prepared for anything from cold and wet to hot and dry conditions. The other environmental factors to be aware of include poisonous and irritating plants, bugs, and animal life. Only in extreme circumstances will a trip be postponed or will a group leave a site early!

Activities

Students are also expected to participate in other group activities and chores, such as cooking and cleaning, campsite maintenance, circle discussions and group games.

Expectations

In addition to the learning objectives set forth by the instructors, students are expected to contribute to the success of the experience by doing their fair share of work, by listening to and respecting TrekNorth staff, and by making decisions based on safety of self, others, and the environment. Students are also expected to abide by the rules set forth in the TrekNorth High School Student Handbook and the principles of Expedition Behavior.

Outdoor Adventure Program A Program of TrekNorth High School

In consideration of the program and services offered by TrekNorth High School, I, joined by my parents or guardians if I am less than eighteen years of age, agree and acknowledge as follows:

Acknowledgement & Assumption of Risks

Although TrekNorth High School has taken reasonable steps to provide me with appropriate equipment and skilled staff for the course for which I have registered, I acknowledge that the activities of the course have risks, including certain risks which cannot be eliminated without destroying the unique character of the activities. The same elements that contribute to the unique character of these activities can cause loss or damage to my equipment, accidental injury, illness, or in extreme cases, permanent trauma, disability or death. I understand that TrekNorth High School does not want to frighten me or reduce my enthusiasm, but considers it important for me to know in advance what to expect and to be informed of the activities' inherent risks. The following describes some, but not all, of the risks inherent to paddling trips with TrekNorth.

1. Equipment may fail or malfunction, despite reasonable maintenance and use
2. Because of the remote location, communication and transportation can be difficult and sometimes evacuations and medical care may be significantly delayed
3. Travel is by vehicle and then foot over rugged, unpredictable terrain or canoe over open lakes or moving rivers. Attendant risks include falling, collision, capsized boats, and others usually associated with such travel, including environmental risks.
4. Environmental risks and hazards include intense heat and freezing cold, high winds, immersion in cold water, and weather changing to extreme conditions without notice. Possible injuries and illnesses include hypothermia, frostbite, dehydration, muscular-skeletal injuries, and other mild or serious conditions, including those brought on by contact with the plant and animal life native to the destination of the trip.
5. TrekNorth activities are conducted indoors and outdoors, day and night. Physical activities include paddling long distances, hiking across portages with large heavy packs, those associated with camping, and various other group or individual activities.
6. Decisions are made by the instructors and students usually in a wilderness setting, and based on a variety of perceptions and evaluations which by their nature are imprecise and subject to reasonable errors in judgment. Misjudgments may pertain to, among other things, a student's capabilities, environment, terrain, weather conditions, natural hazards, routes and medical conditions.

I acknowledge that engaging in this program may require a degree of skill and knowledge not required in other activities, and that I have responsibilities as a student for my safety and the safety of others. I acknowledge that TrekNorth activities are instructional in nature and I expect to be challenged to expand my skills and judgment. I acknowledge that the staff of TrekNorth has been available to more fully explain to me the nature and physical demands of this activity and the inherent risks, hazards, and dangers associated with this activity.

Additionally, I acknowledge that the required academic credit to be gained through participation in this program can be gained through other means.
